Nelson.....The Final Close-Up
Dixie.....Children of Banishment
Princess.....The Clouded Name

It is a very entertaining program that the Hipp is handing out this week. Jack Rose, who is familiar as the "caddy" in one of his bills last fall is at the head of a nice little company of nine tabloid artists. He always welcomes a visit to Fairmont for it was here that he took unto himself his better half, Olive Casteline as she was then known, whose father was proprietor of the racquet store where Chris's is now and later had a grocery where the Underseiling is, and finally ran the Dixie theatre. We must remember all of these things, for some of them are a little ancient. She is the school teacher in what there is of a plot, in the opening bill. The comedy is in the hands of Rose and Mack, the latter taking a specialty with Jeannette Lehne in which they sing "Mammy 'O Mine" that was good for a strong encore. One of the best numbers of the bill is Jeannette Lehne's "Oul, Oul La La" which went over fine. Bobbie Eckert who is suffering from a severe cold is clever as a "blues" singer, she got a strong hand on "The Alcoholic Blues" as well as on "Everybody's Crazy Over Dixie." Lou Matthews who is just back from overseas service, having fought one year on foreign soil has a good number, "Up in the Air." The young man has a good voice, and will prove one of the best entertainers of the week. Inis M. Luce who was with Rose last year was very well received in her mandolin numbers, responding to "two encores." There is plenty of slapstick comedy, not a great deal new, but the audience last night seemed to enjoy it immensely. The real big feature of the bill is the spectacular mechanical display. The bombardment and destruction of Rheims. Margaret May Lester appeared before the audience and briefly rehearsed the big tragic history of the city of Rheims, closing with a splendid tribute to the American boys who went over there. The city which has been built in miniature by Prof. Armand, and looks very real from the rear of the house, is first shown in the quiet of dawn, then in the night time when all is peaceful. Then comes the attack, by aeroplane and Zeppelin, and the dropping of bombs. The defenses of the city answer the challenge, and the sharp crack of the machine guns is heard when the thunder of the heavy artillery subsides. The cathedral is hit, the walls totter and tumble and fire springs up in the remote parts of the city lending a weirdness to the whole scene. The spectacle closes with the appearance of the American army and the flying Stars and Stripes. Many very complimentary remarks were heard about the novelty last night, and the opinion was freely expressed that the one attraction was worth the price of admission.

Grand Enjoyed Good Patronage.

Bad weather doesn't affect Uncle Tom attendance. They poured out last night to see the old story at the Grand just as though it was a clear night, and as though it was the new. Was good entertainment. While it is true that the story is so interesting always that the characters are pretty well lost from a dramatic standpoint, this has not been taken advantage of, and the cast was composed of pretty competent folks. Interest at the Grand now, of course, is turned to the Burlesque which is on for tomorrow night. Uncle Sam has cut out the wine but the women and boys are still with us, and "The Whirl of Folly" is said to have captured some of the finest of both, and we must expect that the quantity and quality of these must make up for the absence of our other friend, The National Burlesque Association is sponsor for the attraction.

There's Class to This.

A musical comedy with real music in it and singers who can sing as well as comedians who can play the drolleries of life without descending to buffooning, is announced as the attraction at the Grand Friday night. The piece "Some Time" which ran for one entire year at the Casino Theatre, in New York, and it is said to have genuine good music, innumerable song numbers, extremely expensive gowns and to contain a plenitude of feminine personality. The piece is the joint work of Rida Johnson Young, Rudolf Friml and Arthur Hammerstein. The first supplying an excellent book which for cleverness is not often equaled, the second giving to the work of the first a tunefulness of music that is worth while and the third giving to the handcraft of the other two strikingly handsome scenery, effective colorful costumes and an educated chorus of distinctly pretty girls who are said to aid the musically capable principles in a most intelligent and enjoyable manner.

Again the Shop Girl.

Once more the tired shop girl meets the young millionaire masking as a plain ordinary man. And Shirley Mason is such a nice little shop girl, who does not know he is rich at all, but just likes him for himself, and so on to the final closeup, about which there is not the slightest doubt from the beginning so that no heavy strain is put upon the spectator's curiosity as to the outcome, nor is his imagination set adrift in the realms of romance. A nice story for those who can sit through it patiently to see the final closeup. At the Nelson today.

Repeating Lewis Success.

Wonder what Mitchell Lewis would do if there were no great Northwest in which to stage such plays as he is repeating at the Dixie today? Such rugged characters as he in a plot of strength and force such as he is seen in today for the last time, are well set in the big lumber camps, with the Sierras for a background. Some beautiful scenes are projected during the course of the story which has to do with the heroes' winning success in life, and the woman he loves. It all makes an interesting story and is told in an interesting way.

Drama and Serial.

In the lead off at the Princess today we find another of the Northwest stories, "The Clouded Name" with John Lowell in the stellar role. The second part of the program is the serial "The Great Gamble."

KLIM The Powdered Fresh Milk KLIM

Klim is by no means an experiment. For years, bakers, confectioners and ice cream makers have been using Klim powdered milk.

Klim is certified Milk
Klim will not sour
Klim will not spoil
Klim has no germs
Klim needs no ice
Klim is fresh milk always
Klim is pure, clean milk
Klim is economical
Klim is convenient
Klim is not adulterated
Klim is the milk of the future.

MILK—with the water removed —KLIM
KLIM—with the water replaced —MILK

When you mix milk out of Klim, you mix it to suit your purpose, heavy or light. You can mix double cream which is palatable and muscle building, which is not the case with the cream taken off liquid milk. In such cream you only have the butterfat, but no protein, milk sugar or mineral matter. These solids remain in the skim milk. Therefore, if you get a good skim milk, like Klim, and eat potatoes or bread, and butter with it, you have a perfect meal, which gives you muscle and energy.
